To offer you a special selection of ventilation units, all shapes and colours of our starline collection have been exclusively created in cooperation with sieger design.

Smart functionality and at times archetypal styling distinguish the sieger design drafts – to achieve this, the design studio applies utmost sensitivity, attention to detail and forward-looking thinking.

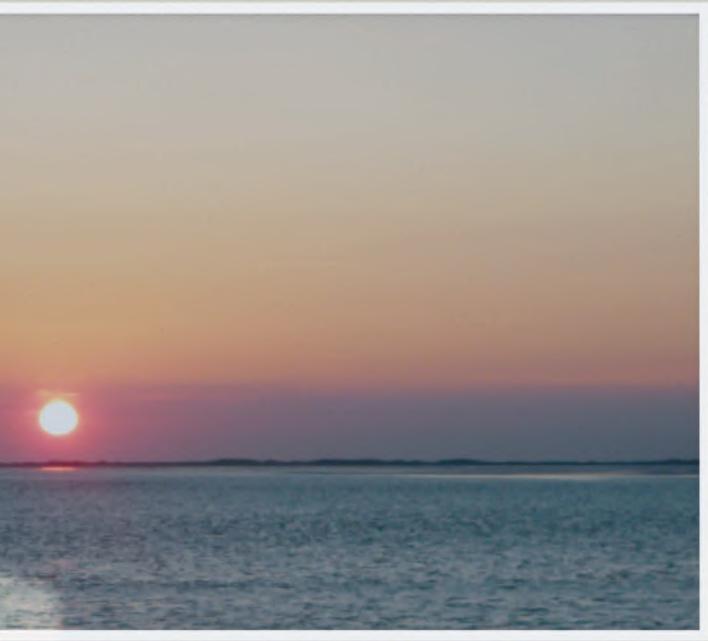

sieger design has been exactly the right partner for FRÄNKISCHE to bring in: Heat recovery ventilation technology meets premium design – quality meets quality. The design grills from the starline collection set the right highlight with regard to heat recovery ventilation.

Let yourself be inspired by our versatile starline portfolio presented in this brochure.

Heat recovery ventilation with profi-air®

What does heat recovery ventilation (HRV) stand for?

Heat recovery ventilation is mechanical ventilation of residential buildings and apartments.

Do I really need it?

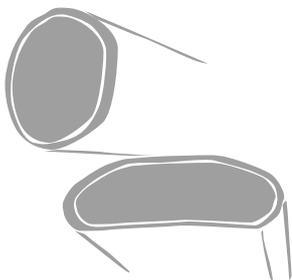

Healthy air, effective building protection, stable value of property and the improvement of energy efficiency are just some of the HRV's benefits.

What does it have to do with starline design grills?

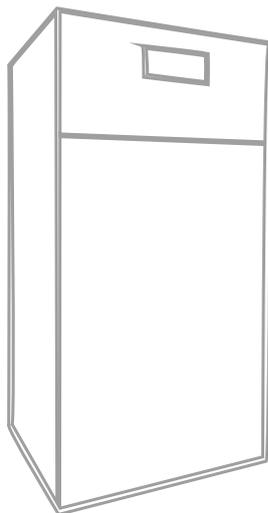

The starline design grills are part of our profi-air complete system for heat recovery ventilation. The ventilation grills are the only visible elements of an HRV system in the room.

This is one of the main reasons why we attach great value to versatile designs and high-quality materials.
